Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone, fax, web site, email or post. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on October 17, 2007 4 PM CDT.

EXAMPLE—You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and if your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you after the closing date, October 17, 2007 4 PM CDT.

If you are ever in the area, stop in to see us! Of course, it's best to call first. Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. reserves the right to refuse any bids.

Robinson, ANS Centennial Publication, 1958, p. 56, pl. 39,3); SNG Munich-14; Tkalec Auction 2/2001-lot 116 (same obverse die and reverse punches). Obv: ΦΑΝΕΟΣ retrograde, stag grazing r., its coat is made up of circular indentations; Rx: Two incuse punches, each with raised intersecting lines. Extremely rare. There are eight known coins bearing the magnate's name, Phanes. Three staters carry the legend Phaneos emi sema ("I am the badge of Phanes") and five 1/3 staters bear the name Phaneos ("of Phanes"). This is one of the most significant issues from the dawn of coinage, bearing the first name of an individual to appear on a coin. This coin is extremely important and highly significant. Well centered, pleasant VF70000
4. IONIA, EPHEBUS, PHANES; EL Hekte (1/6 Stater), c. 625-600 BC, 2.32g., Cf. Weidauer-36; M&M Rosen Sale-see lots 37 and 53 for lighter denominations; CNG Triton VIII-lot 400 (same type); CNG Triton IX-lot 919 (same type). Obv: Forepart of stag facing r., head looking l.; Rx: Incuse square punch with raised lines within. Extremely rare type. Less than 10 known. Excellent centering. About EF8000
5. UNCERTAIN IONIA; EL Trite (1/3 Stater), c. 7th-6th century BC, 4.73g., Weidauer-147; Babelon I-p. 67,71 (pl. 2,25); Numismatic Chronicle 1890-pl. 3,17. Obv: Striding Pegasus facing l.; Rx: Two irregular square incuses beside each other. Three recorded. Extremely rare issue from the dawn of coinage. This coin is favorably comparable to the examples in Weidauer. Discoloration above Pegasus' wing. VF19500
6. MACEDONIA, PHILIP II; 359-336 BC, Gold Stater, Amphipolis, c. 340-328 BC, 8.58g., Le Rider-D3/R7. Excellent style. Near perfect centering. Mint State6000

Rx: DIVVS AVG PATER PATRIAE Radiate head of Divus Augustus r. The same obverse die was also used on an aureus with reverse Bust of Agrippina I, Giard, Lyon (1983), pl. XL, 168/12a. Beautifully centered. Bold fine17750
10. CLAUDIUS I; 41-54 AD, Aureus, Lugdunum, 46-7 AD, 7.58g., BM-37, Paris-52, C-45 (60 Fr.), RIC-36 (R4), Calicó-362. Obv: TI CLAVD CAESAR AVG P M TR P VI IMP XI Head laureate r. Rx: IMPER RECEPT across the front wall of the Praetorian camp, which has ramparts and two gates; behind, two sections of the back wall of the camp, with two further gates; within the camp, Fides Praetorianorum, the Loyalty of the Praetorians, seated l. in temple, holding scepter, legionary eagle before her. The figure in the temple seems to be not a Praetorian soldier, as usually described, but the personification of the Loyalty of the Praetorians. That lady is implied by the legend, which should be expanded as "Imperator receptus (in fidem Praetorianorum)", "The Emperor received into the loyalty of the Praetorians". For this interpretation see C. Clay's article on the coinage of Nero, Num. Zeitschrift 96, 1982, pp. 42-3. Neither die of our coin is illustrated in von Kaenel's monograph on the coinage of Claudius. Very interesting type. VF12000

Rx: PARTHICO P M TR P COS VI P P SPQR Bust of Sol draped and radiate right. The final issue of aurei and denarii of Trajan's reign. The same obverse die was also used with the reverse LIBERALITAS VII COS IIII, Lictor standing left holding coin counter and fasces, BM-820, pl. 17.8. Beautifully detailed portrait of emperor. Some barely visible microscopic graffiti on reverse. Mint State11000

- over barbarians in 269 BC. The Galatian tribes crossed the Hellespont in winter of 278/7. Some of them served briefly as mercenaries in the army of Nicomedes of Bithynia, but then they were set loose to ravage Asia Minor. The three tribes divided Asia Minor into raiding districts. The Trocmi took the Hellespontine coast, the Tolistobogii claimed Aeolis and Ionia, and the Tectosages drew the inland. Places known to have been raided or threatened/extorted include Cyzicus (278/7), the sanctuary at Didyma (277/6), Priene and Erythrae (270s), Thyatira, Laocidea on the Lycus, and perhaps Limyra or other places in Lycia. In 269 BC, Antiochus I drove the barbarians out of Asia Minor. Antiochus I was honored as Soter (Savior) by the Ionian League and at Bargylia in Caria. The "Elephant Victory" was commemorated by terracotta statuettes at Myrina and by a poet from Magnesia ad Sipylum. Mint State.....1500

Rx: PATIENTIA - AVGVSTI around, COS III in exergue, Patientia seated l. extending r. hand and holding scepter in l. Very rare. The Reka Devnia hoard contained two specimens of this type, one like ours and one with a draped bust. Strack-202 records the two Reka Devnia coins in Sofia, BM-525, two specimens in Paris, and only three others: Gneccchi Collection, L.A. Lawrence, and Ball VI, 1932, lot 1355. This is the sole appearance of the personification Patientia on Roman coins. Apparently her name was not well received, because it was very soon changed to INDVLGENTIA AVG, and with the new name the identical type, seated female figure extending r. hand and holding scepter, was struck in substantial quantity. As Strack and Mattingly suggested, the sense of the Patientia type, since it was soon to be renamed Indulgentia, may have been "endurance of other people's troubles rather than one's own" (BMC III, p. cxli). As the sole appearance of this deity on a Roman coin, and being quite rare as well, this coin is extremely desirable. Very rare. VF2500

The effusive titles voted to Julia after Septimius' death in 211 AD, "Mother of the Two Emperors, Mother of the Senate, Mother of the Fatherland", are joined with a figure of Pax to express the hope that she could reconcile her quarrelling sons! The usual designation of this figure as Julia herself is an error, since she wears the normal coiffure of a goddess not Julia's own characteristic helmet-like hairdo. - ANTIQUITIES
NEAR EASTERN
621. BACTRIAN RED BRECCHIA VESSEL, ca. 1700 B.C. This unusual vessel is carved out of a deep burgundy red breccia with darker and lighter stones in the matrix. The piece has two pierced lug handles on either side of the circular well. The bottom is drilled through horizontally. Intact with general surface abrasions and a few chips. L. 1 3/4" H. 1 5/8"550
622. SYRO-PHOENICIAN STEATITE GRIFFIN BEAD, ca. 1100 B.C. Of glazed steatite whose color has worn away, this square plaque is decorated on each side with the image of a winged griffin. One side shows a griffin in profile, while the other side shows a two-headed griffin in frontal view. The field around the griffins is occupied by small, stylized hieroglyphs with no meaning. L. 1/2"...750
623. HEBREW BONE STAMP SEAL, ca. 7th to 6th cent. B.C. This bone stamp seal has two geometric figures standing side by side. Found in Jerusalem. L. 3/4"500
624. LURISTAN BRONZE MASTER OF ANIMALS PIN HEAD, ca. 800 B.C. This large pin terminus depicts the famous master of animals design of a hero flanked by two beasts. The piece has a thick light green patination with earthen encrustation and is unusually well modeled for a pin terminus. Mounted. L. 1 3/4"325
625. JEWISH IVORY SCARAB SEAL, ca. 8th-7th cent. B.C. The top is modeled in the form of a standard scarab beetle. The flat underside bears the inscription of a personal name, "Isa," and depicts a standing figure next to a palm frond. L. 11/16"2250
- EGYPTIAN
626. UNGLAZED STEATITE SCARAB, 2nd Intermediate Period, ca. 1778-1567 B.C. The top of this superbly carved scarab is elaborately decorated with scrolls on the thorax and wings. The scarab's bottom depicts a striding, falcon-headed, winged sphinx preceded by an upreared cobra. The field around the sphinx is filled with hieroglyphs that were selected mainly for their amuletic significance, though some may be translated, "May an offering be given (to) Neith." L. 7/8"650
627. UNGLAZED STEATITE SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. The underside of this scarab is decorated with the image of a sphinx facing an upreared cobra. The sphinx's head is that of a pharaoh wearing a striped headdress cinched in back, while its lion's tail terminates in another cobra. The Egyptian pharaoh was often depicted as a lion attacking his enemies; the cobra was a protective goddess that spewed fiery venom against the king's foes. The top of the scarab is very simply carved, with two nicks indicating the separation of the beetle's thorax and abdomen. L. 3/4"500
628. STEATITE SCARABOID, New Kingdom, ca. 1550-1070 B.C. Glazed blue-green, featuring a human face and cross-hatched headdress, this scaraboid represents a developmental style first observed in the human headed heart scarabs of the Middle Kingdom. The underside carries the throne name of King Thutmose III, regnal dates 1483-1429 B.C., "Men.Kepher Re" flanked by two plumes, symbolic of truth and justice and the goddess Ma'at. An amulet of royal protection. L. 3/4"2400
629. DIORITE GNEISS EYE OF HORUS, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. The udjat-eye, inserted into the wrappings of a mummy, protected the deceased from the dangers of the Underworld and assisted in restoring the vitality of the physical body after death. This particular example, of mottled black and white diorite, is fashioned only in outline, without any indication of the eye's details. Even the suspension loop attached to the top of the amulet was left undrilled. While it is possible that this particular example was never finished, even a rudimentary example with vestigial suspension loop, like this one, would have possessed amuletic powers. This particular example might simply have been tucked inside the mummy bandages, rather than sewn on by means of a suspension loop. L. 1"425
630. STEATITE LOTUS SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1550-1070 B.C. A finely carved scarab of oval form with well defined leg area. Simple head rendering with fine lines incised upon the clypeus frill, simple notches to indicate the wing cases, and delicately outlined wing case edges. The surface texture is smooth from handling, with an indication of wear at the frontal perforation for stringing. The reverse side features an incised lotus and lotus bud motif, symbolic of renewal. A Hyksos-era type of composition found to continue in later scarabs of the New Kingdom. L. 11/16"750
631. GLAZED STEATITE PLAQUE, New Kingdom, ca. 1550-1070 B.C. Inscribed on one side is an elaborate cross-woven design incorporating Uraei, reversing to a composition of glyphs in three registers: The glyphs bear some resemblance to a royal name of the era, but may more likely represent a series of good wishes, due to the lines separating the piece into three parts. The registers translate as: "The heart's limit", "This 'Amon-Re' 'may (he) make the child to live.'" L. 19 mm800
632. RECTANGULAR FAIENCE SEAL, 19th Dynasty, ca. 1200-1194 B.C. Brilliant blue faience plaque inscribed for Seti II. One side of this plaque bears Seti

- II's prenomen, or throne name (User-kheperu-re Mer-amun "Powerful of manifestations is Re, beloved of Amun"), while the other side is inscribed with his nomen, or birth name (Sety Mer-en-ptah "Seti beloved of Ptah"). Since this plaque is drilled, it was most likely a component of a large collar or necklace. L. 1"1850
633. FAIENCE BARBUS FISH AMULET, Third Intermediate-Late Period, ca. 1070-343 B.C. An amulet, composed of glazed faience, depicting a Barbus fish, (also described as the Lepidotus). The barbus fish was sacred to the local goddess of the city of Ahydas, Mehyt. This example features painted black eye details, black stripes masking its head fin, and delicately incised gill markings. Dorsal and tail fin are indicated. The possession of such an amulet represented religious devotion to the goddess Mehyt, a protection deity often portrayed with the head of a lioness. Signs of wear in the faience glaze and breakage in the area of the lower frontal fin indicated active use over time. L. 1 3/4"500
634. KNEELING BRONZE OF HARPOCRATES, 3rd Intermediate Period to Late Period. An unusually large and rare Egyptian bronze with a fantastic reddish-brown patina. Kneeling with arms resting in front and slightly at his sides, the great sky-god depicted here in human form, gives us a rare example into one of the most celebrated of all Egyptian gods. Even the original core still exists in this piece which can be seen from a section in the back, giving us a rare look into the production methods which were used during this period. A very special piece worthy of any Egyptian collection. Mounted. H. 5 1/4"9500
635. GREEN FAIENCE SEATED SCRIBE, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This delicately rendered piece depicts a scribe seated with his hands resting on his knees looking forward. The faience is very intricately modeled and has nice green color with reddish staining. H. 21mm2250
636. AN UNUSUAL EGYPTIAN YELLOW FAIENCE BES PLAQUE AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. An amuletic plaque of the dwarf-god Bes in unusual form holding a lyre or tambourine. His face rendered in traditional fashion with a beard of incised lines, prominent ears and plumed headdress. Bes was a protective deity who frightened evil away with his scowling expression. The amulet is composed of faience, glazed bright yellow with black tips. H. 1 1/8" 600
637. EGYPTIAN FAIENCE AMULET OF TYET, 26th Dynasty, ca. 664-525 B.C. Composed of glazed faience, the Tyet amulet, or Knot of Isis, represents a knotted clothing sash and offered the protection of the goddess Isis, as great mother goddess, and magical healer. These faience examples (it is also common for these amulets to be rendered in red stone) come from a funerary context, and were usually laid upon the mummy's upper torso along with other amulets believed to aid in magical regeneration. This amulet functioned primarily to protect the mummy from damage or destruction. L. 3/4"375
638. DEEP BLUE FAIENCE BABOON, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Of very lightweight faience, this baboon is shown squatting on an ovoid base, with its hands in front of its stomach. The strong brow, eyes, nose, ruff, fingers, and toes are all carefully modeled. A lunar disk was originally atop the baboon's head, but is now broken off. The back pillar is inscribed (upside-down) with the names of the owner and his mother; the crude hieroglyphs may be read "Irtify, born of Nes-ta-rekhyet." As an amulet, the baboon would have guaranteed its owner rebirth and renewed life, for the baboon was associated with the newly reborn sun at dawn and was also a symbol of sexual vigor. H. 1 1/2"750
639. EXTRAORDINARILY FINE PALE BLUE-GREEN FAIENCE DJED-PILLAR, Late Period, probably Saite, ca. 715-330 B.C. Extraordinarily fine and large pale blue-green faience djed-pillar. Although the djed-pillar is attested from earliest times, exactly what it represents is uncertain. It may be a stylized tree trunk with the branches chopped off, or it may represent the four pillars that support the sky superimposed upon one another. Ultimately the djed-pillar was considered to represent Osiris' backbone. As a hieroglyph, djed meant "stability," and this amulet therefore imbued its owner with stability and endurance. Chapter 155 of the Book of the Dead prescribes placement of a djed-pillar amulet at the throat of the mummy, to transform the deceased into an "equipped spirit" in the entourage of Osiris. Drilled crosswise through the middle, this amulet would have been sewn onto the bandages of a mummy, either at the throat or elsewhere on the torso. L. 2"1350
640. GREEN FAIENCE BES AMULET, Saite Period, 26th Dynasty, ca. 664-525 B.C. An amuletic plaque of the dwarf-god Bes, his face rendered in traditional fashion with plumed headdress, prominent ears, and a beard of incised lines. Bes was a protective deity who frightened evil away with his scowling expression. The amulet is composed of faience, glazed green. The reverse features an arrangement of glyphs including the nefer sign, meaning "good" as "beautiful"; the renpet sign, meaning "year"; and topmost, the solar disk glyph re with the horned glyph wepet below it meaning "to inaugurate" or "to open". Together, the inscription wishes the owner a good or beautiful opening of the year; or in other words, a "Happy New Year." This was a gift amulet for an annual holiday, perforated for stringing to wear in a necklace. In very good condition. H. 1 1/16"1500
641. EGYPTIAN BLUE FAIENCE SCARAB, Saite Period, 26th Dynasty, ca. 664-525 B.C. A blue faience funerary scarab with perforations for stringing. The scarab would have been a part of a complex amuletic system placed upon the mummy to ritually renew and revitalize, often part of a net of beads worked into a shroud. L. 23 mm475
642. FAIENCE FOUR-SIDED BES AMULET, Late Period, ca. 525-332 B.C. A rare

- and intricate four-sided amulet of the dwarf god Bes in a light green glazed faience. With the multiple images of the dwarf god Bes, the amulet would have enhanced the power of warding off evil and protecting the wearer. H. 1 3/16".....750
643. BLUE GLASS SCARAB, Late Period, ca. 525-332 B.C. Blue glass scarab with incised lines denoting parts of the beetle. No inscription on the underside, possibly intended for inlay. L. 1 1/8".....500
644. BLUE FAIENCE AMULET OF HATHOR, 26th Dynasty, 664-525 B.C. A detailed representation of Hathor, the important and heavily worshiped bovine goddess. She was worshiped in three forms; as a woman with the ears of a cow, a woman wearing a headdress of a wig, horns and sun disk, and as a cow (depicted here as the latter). She was regarded as the divine mother of the ruling king. This fine amulet is missing its suspension loop, which was once mounted at the top of Hathor's head. L. 11/16", (18 mm.).....550
645. LIGHT GREEN FAIENCE USHABTI, 26th Dynasty, ca. 664-525 B.C. This ushabti stands with feet close together and arms crossed over his chest. The inscription is translated as: "The Venerated Osiris, Amon-redjy-es,* the True of Voice" (Amon redjy-es may be translated as "one given, or sent, by the god Amon-Re). H. 3 1/8".....325
646. RED JASPER BOUND COW AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This nicely sculpted amulet is called a "rehen," or food offering amulet in the image of a bound cow. This amulet is associated with chapter 162 of the Book of the Dead and is generally supposed to represent an abundant supply of food in the afterlife and not necessarily a sacrifice. This example is in perfect condition, sculpted in a nice uniform red jasper. L. 1 1/8".....550
647. LARGE FAIENCE WINGED SCARAB, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This is a lovely example of a large winged funerary scarab, a type made almost exclusively from bright blue faience and molded with a flat underside. The piece is pierced around the edges for attachment to the mummy wrappings over the chest of the deceased or worked into the beaded funerary shroud which covered the mummy. The body is carved to represent the insect quite naturalistically with details such as the wrinkle edged clypeus above the head and broad curving grooves defining the prothorax and wing cases, which are accented with feathering. Mounted. H. 3 1/4" L. 5 1/4".....2850
648. POLYCHROME WOODEN MUMMY MASK, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This is a very nice example of a later Egyptian face piece from a sarcophagus. The piece is carved out of a large piece of cedar with its original peg holes for securing to a sarcophagus still intact. The mask has very nice detailing, especially for a later style, with its large open Egyptian eyes outlined in blue. The upper portion of the wig is bordered with a blue, red, and yellow band and the details of the nostrils and lips are painted red. H. 12" W. 8 1/8".....5500
649. MULTICOLOR FAIENCE UDJAT, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. A very thick blue udjat amulet with its eye details outlined in a darker glaze. The piece is pierced for suspension and there is a small chip to the bottom. L. 7/8".....450
650. A LARGE EGYPTIAN WOODEN POLYCHROME MUMMY MASK, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This unusually large mummy mask has a thick gesso foundation over the wooden mask with painted surface details. The face is rendered in light red-orange with darkly outlined eyes. The top of the head is covered with a portion of a striated mummy wig in bands of green and white. Retouching of some surface gesso and paint, otherwise intact. H. 14".....7500
651. BROWN-GREEN FAIENCE USHABTI, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Of standard mummiform ushabti shape with nicely delineated facial and implement features with one central register of illegible glyphs. The nose and tip of the beard are broken. Mounted. L. 5 ".....750
652. LIGHT GREEN FAIENCE USHABTI, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. A nicer style mummiform ushabti in light green faience holding a hoe, flail and seed bag. Intact and mounted. L. 4 3/8".....625
653. LIGHT BLUE FAIENCE USHABTI, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. A smaller ushabti in blue faience with black facial details and hieroglyphs. Mounted. H. 2 3/8".....425
654. FAIENCE USHABTI, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Of standard mummiform design holding a seed bag and hoe, the piece has degraded surfaces and is repaired at the ankles. L. 6 1/8".....525
655. FAIENCE USHABTI, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. A larger light green standard mummiform ushabti holding a seed bag and hoe. Repaired from two large fragments. Degraded surfaces. L. 6".....450
656. FAIENCE HORUS AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. The falcon god is modeled in green faience with feather-detailed chest. He wears the Double Crown. H. 1 1/2".....250
657. FAIENCE TAWERET AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. A three-dimensional figure in green faience with hands turned as though resting on a support. Taweret was a household deity that took the form of a female hippo and was particularly associated with the protection of women in childbirth. The goddess was often portrayed with the arms and legs of a lion and the tail and back of a crocodile, while her large breasts and belly gave a suggestion of pregnancy. H. 1 1/2".....450
658. FAIENCE SEKHMET AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Sekhmet portrayed as a woman with a lioness's head. Sekhmet is the lion goddess whose name meant 'she who is powerful.' Loss at top of head. The amulet is pierced for suspension. H. 1 1/8".....325
659. FAIENCE FOOTED CUP, Late-Ptolemaic Period, ca. 715-30 B.C. Of pale blue faience, this footed cup is inscribed "nekhenem-oil," the substance the cup originally contained. Nekhenem-oil is commonly named in offering lists and was possibly also used in the mummification process and in rituals carried out during burial. The cup is very finely modeled and extraordinarily well preserved. The inscription is highlighted in dark blue. H. 1 15/16".....2250
660. FAIENCE FOOTED CUP, Late-Ptolemaic Period, ca. 715-30 B.C. Of pale blue faience, this footed cup is labeled with the word "unguent." The unguent the cup contained may have been used in the mummification process as well as in rituals carried out during burial. The cup is very finely modeled and extraordinarily well preserved. The inscription is highlighted in dark blue. H. 2 1/8".....2250
661. FAIENCE FOOTED CUP WITH ROYAL INSCRIPTION, Ptolemaic Period, ca. 305-30 B.C. Of pale blue faience, this footed cup is inscribed with a line of text below the rim reading "The Son of Re, Lord of Crowns, Ptolemy, living forever, beloved of Sokar-Osiris" and, below this text, the label "festival scent." This scent was one of the seven sacred oils used in mummification and burial rituals, and the reference to Sokar-Osiris, a syncretistic form of two funerary gods, confirms the cup's funerary function. The cup is very finely modeled and extraordinarily well preserved. The inscription is highlighted in dark blue. H. 2 1/8".....5500
662. FAIENCE FOOTED CUP, Late-Ptolemaic Period, ca. 715-30 B.C. Of pale blue faience, this footed cup is inscribed "sefetj-oil," the substance the cup originally contained. Sefetj-oil is commonly named in offering lists and was possibly also used in the mummification process and in rituals carried out during burial. The cup is very finely modeled and extraordinarily well preserved. The inscription is highlighted in dark blue. H. 2 1/4".....2250
663. FAIENCE PLAQUE OF KHONSU, Late Period, ca. 664-525 B.C. This rectangular plaque of blue-glazed faience depicts the moon-god Khonsu in frontal view. The son of Amun and Mut, Khonsu is typically represented as a youth, head shaved except for a long sidelock, and wearing a broad-collar and a uraeus cobra on his brow. Whereas Khonsu is usually shown in the tight-fitting wrappings of a mummy, the fact that he is here depicted as nude emphasizes his youthful aspect. This plaque would have placed its owner under the protection of Khonsu or permitted him to assimilate Khonsu's attributes and characteristics. Broken and reglued at chest level. Mounted. H. 2 1/4".....1400
664. FAIENCE HEAD OF PTAH, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Faience head of Ptah from a larger amulet of the god. As usual, Ptah here wears a tight-fitting skullcap. The large suspension loop at the back of Ptah's neck is still preserved. The facial features and ears- modeled economically by means of a few notches- are characteristic of the Ptolemaic era. Mounted. H. 5/8".....250
665. COPTIC BONE PIN OR APPLICATOR STICK, ca. 3rd-6th cent. A.D. This bone pin may have been used to fasten a cloak or as an applicator stick for eye makeup. The decoration of the handle, which consists of rounded bands and twisting incised lines, may imitate a twisted rope, tied at irregular intervals resulting in bulging bands. The pointed tip is slightly chipped, but the rounded end of the handle is perfectly preserved. L. 5 1/4".....225

666. GREEK CYPRIOT BICHROME WARE JUG, ca. 8th-7th cent. B.C. Of spherical form with short flaring neck and a single handle joining the neck to the body. 667. EASTERN GREEK BALSAMARIUM HEAD OF RIVER GOD, ca. 560-550 B.C. This perfume jar is modeled in the form of Achelous, the oldest Greek river god, who had the power to change his shape. The piece depicts a bearded human head with bovine ears and horns- a typical depiction of the river god who is usually seen as a bull with the horned head of a man. Some vase paintings show Achelous with a twining fishtail wrestling Heracles for the hand of the beautiful Deianira. The mica rich clay body indicates manufacture in Miletus and the archaic beard and smile place the vase in the first half of the sixth century B.C. The left horn and opening have been restored and the piece has been over painted. Provenance: Andre Emmerich Gallery, New York, 1977. Munzen und Medaillen, Basel, 19 February 1980, no. 53. 668. MAGNA GRAECIA DAUNIAN FOOTED DISH, ca. 4th cent. B.C. A small footed dish with horizontal brown and black painted bands on the outer body and stem with a decorative black swag design accenting the underside of the bowl. The rim is edged in black and the inside of the shallow bowl is painted with a thick brown band surrounded by a series of black dots. A black band encircles a painted X in the center. There are two small holes of ancient origin on the rim, perhaps for the attachment of string or leather. Provenance: Harmer Rooke, 17 February, 1995. H. 4 1/2" D. 3".....450
669. MAGNA GRAECIA CAMPANIAN RED FIGURE BAIL AMPHORA, ca. 340-320 B.C. This is an elegantly shaped vessel, the body decorated with elaborate florals flanked by palmettes. Waves encircle the base and reserved panels decorate the neck. The overall design is accented with the generous use of yellow and white highlights and the twisted handle is pierced for suspension.

- This type of amphora is unique to Campanian pottery and is perhaps singular, having no figures. Intact. For the florals see: Trendall, "The Red Figure Vases of Lucania, Campania and Sicily," pl 162/5. For shoulder design see: Minerva, Vol. 13 No. 5. p. 73. Provenance: 19th century European Collection. 1968/72 Private Collection. Christie's London, 25 April, 2001 no. 192. Charles Ede Ltd., September 2002. H. 10 3/4"3750
670. MAGNA GRAECIA APULIAN GNATHIAN SPOUT TAILED ASKOS, ca. 300 B.C. The askos, which takes its form from the bag-like wine skin, is a not too common shape in South Italian pottery. This piece is even more unusual for its two spouts, one at the front and a small nozzle behind the handle for pouring a very fine stream. The piece is painted with a white theatrical mask of a courtesan in profile (type XC) with the elaborate details defined in yellow paint. Two attachment ribbons hang from the mask and a long red scarf with yellow fringe detailing flanks it. Masks of this type were worn by actors playing hetaira, professional girlfriends, who were favorite characters in Middle Comedy. Depictions of these beautiful women seem to have been popular souvenirs of the theatre. This unusual piece is intact and well preserved. See: Green, "Gnathian Pottery in the Akademisches Kunstmuseum." Provenance: Fragments of Time, November, 1998. H. 5 1/2"5000
671. MAGNA GRAECIA APULIAN RED-FIGURE SPHERICAL PYXIS, STROKE-ON-TRENT PAINTER, ca. 330 B.C. This is a beautiful spherical pyxis with two seated Erotes framed by palmettes on the lid. The winged naked figures hold mirrors, a grape cluster, a ball on a string and an aryballos. On the lower half of the vase is a female head facing left and a fluttering bird flanked by scrolls, florals and matching palmettes. This register is bordered by a band of wave design below. The piece is accented with areas of detail in white and yellow. This gorgeous lidded container was part of an ancient Greek woman's toiletry, perhaps used to hold cosmetics or jewelry. The perfect alignment of its two hemispheres evidences the work of a master potter. The skill which produced the continuous curve of the vase's exterior profile is extraordinary. It would be difficult to duplicate this vessel today by anyone but the most experienced potter. The piece is fully intact and beautifully preserved. For the Stoke-on-Trent Painter see: A.D. Trendall, "Red Figure Vases of South Italy and Sicily," p.98. Provenance: Fortuna Gallery, New York, 1991. H. 9 1/2" D. 7"9000
672. MAGNA GRAECIA CAMPANIAN KERNOS, ca. 350-300 B.C. The squat cylindrical stand is decorated with a reserved laurel wreath and applied white berries. Four small black glazed vessels with knobbed lids sit atop the base and are joined by a central loop handle. This particular cluster vessel was probably used for serving condiments in antiquity and then perhaps placed in a tomb to provide for eternity. Other four-part cruets exist, all from Italy and all dating to the late fourth century. This shape appears to be an Italic specialty with no known Attic precedents. There is a repair to the handle and to one lid. See: J.M. Padgett, "Vase Painting in Italy," pp. 173, 240. Provenance: Bonhams, 12 December, 1995. H. 7 1/2"3500

674. GREEK MARBLE ZEUS, ca. 4th-3rd cent. B.C. The statue is beautifully executed in imported marble of fine quality, intact except for insignificant chips to the mural crown and base and loss of right arm. The style is Greek, possibly as early as the fourth century B.C. and probably no later than 200 B.C., although the style consciously recalls work of the fifth century B.C., particularly in the reserved, dignified head of Zeus and carefully arranged and deeply cut drapery. This is the distinctive cult image of the chief deity of Odessos, Zeus as the Great God of Odessos. The god is draped but with Zeus' finely muscled torso bare, holding a cornucopia in his left hand and arm. The lost right arm would have held a phiale, a shallow sacrificial bowl. Only at Odessos does Zeus hold a cornucopia, originally an attribute of the native deity first worshiped under the Thracian name Darzalas and then known simply as the Great God, until Greek cultural influences led to the identification of the Great God with the Greek Zeus and the fusion at Odessos of the two cults. Zeus as the Great God of Odessos appears in just this form, except for the mural crown, on a rare tetradrachm of Odessos struck about 200 B.C. or shortly thereafter, and in exactly this form, wearing a mural crown or a kalathos, on bronze coins of Odessos. This is probably the finest sculptural representation of Odessan Zeus in existence. Other known images include numerous terracotta statuettes discovered in and around Varna (the modern name of ancient Odessos), and a unique miniature lead statuette from the 4th century B.C. The statue is fitted into the obviously original base of exotically colored imported marble bearing an excellently cut Greek inscription, which translates: "To Zeus the Savior. From Sosipater's son, Luke, President of the Religious Association of Worshipers of Zeus the Savior." We find it interesting that this inscription is close in its wording to many Christian dedications. In itself, the inscription is an important document attesting the formal organization of worshipers of the Great God of Odessos under the name of Zeus the Savior. The letterforms also indicate a date no later than about 200 B.C. H. 24" W. 7 1/2"185000
675. LARGE MARBLE HEAD OF A ROMAN NOBLE, ca. 250 A.D. 688. A PAIR OF CHINESE NORTHERN WEI GREY POTTERY EARTH SPIRITS, Northern Wei, ca. 5th cent. A.D. This is a very rare matching pair of Chinese Earth Spirits from the Northern Wei Dynasty. Earth Spirits from the earlier dynasties (such as this pair) are modeled in a much more archaic form than the more common Tang Dynasty examples. These guardian beings are called Zhenmushou in Chinese, which literally means "tomb guardian creatures." In this form, they first appear in ancient tombs in the Six Dynasties period like this earlier pair. Earth Spirits are grotesquely modeled creatures and appear in pairs, one with a human's face and one with a lion's face. Their fantastic features symbolize their supernatural abilities to ward off evil and protect their domain. Each Spirit sits up in a defiant position with sharply ridged back, one with a

- grotesquely modeled human face with bulging eyes, fangs, large ears and a pointed top knot and the other with a stylized lion's face framed with flanges and three elaborate horns. The colt has very delicately modeled facial features with wide open triangular eyes, ears perked forward, and face and mane painted white. A very wonderful type in excellent condition with only an old restoration around the neck. H. 7 3/4".....1250

This wonderfully complex design is carved from the famous mottled sandstone quarries of northern India which have an unusual white speckle pattern within the deep red sandstone. Excellent condition with typical chipping to the edges. Comes with a custom built brass table. Ex Spink, London and Pritzker Collection, Chicago. L. 36 1/2" H. 34".....8500

Bhairava is the fierce manifestation of the Hindu god Shiva. Thus the god's eyes are large and bulging, he has a widened nose and an open fanged mouth along with the three bar marking across his forehead symbolizing his identity as Shiva. It has traces of paint pigment and areas where it would have been attached to a larger effigy. General devotional wear. A nice used period piece. L. 10 1/8" 1250
699. EASTERN JAVANESE BRONZE VOTIVE STUPA, ca. 13th-14th cent. B.C. This unusual Eastern Javanese stupa has a circular double lotus base with various circular discs running the length. The base of the spire, which is now broken, is decorated in a stylized leaf design. A stupa is one of the original Buddhist monuments with a circular body and a long spire. Legend has it that on his deathbed the Buddha was asked how he wanted to be remembered and he simply turned his rice bowl over, signifying that he wished nothing. The overturned rice bowl then became the model for the stupa. Dark green and black patina. H. 5 1/2".....750

The piece is sculpted out of a heavy tropical wood with multiple thick layers of lacquer as well as a recent lacquering and touch-up.
